This program is offered to school communities and communities who have recognized the need for an outlet to let parents speak and connect and be empowered to release and find solutions.

The program is based on the many calls/conversations that Turtle Concepts has had with parents who are now teachers more than ever. Some away at schools, some online at home and some doing home schooling... this is a whole new world.

Dave Jones will invite parents to a dedicated day and hour that gives them the chance to chat, to complain, to laugh, to listen, to share and to connect to “Turtle Concepts” energy. And this program can run later in the evening so as the parent can attend to their parental duties.

Dave and his team will provide insight, solutions, stories, jokes, and more to help relieve some of the mental stress that “needs to be spoken to!”
